NEW FLEET ORGANIZATION

Washington, April 9.—After having worked for a long time to develop the system of one-man control of the great fleets of the navy Secretary

Meyer has come to the conclusion that the abilities of the individual have reached the breaking point and that it will be necessary to subdivide the responsibility. Therefore, he has approved a number of changes in the naval regulations, concerning the administration of the Atlantic and Pacific fleets.

The main purpose of these changes is to relieve the commanders in chief of the fleets of much of the details of administration which occupied a large portion of their time. This is to be accomplished by transferring to the rear admiral in command of each division of the fleet, comprising four ships each, a large measure of authority and administrative power.

N. Y., N. H. & H. RAILROAD FREIGHT OFFICIAL HERE

Consults Paper Mill People and Looks at the Water Front

One of the officials of the freight department of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad came to this city on Friday where he spent a good part of the day on what may later be matters of much importance to Portsmouth.

This representative made quite a stay at the plant of the Colonial Paper company, where he met the officers of the company in a business way. It is understood that the New York, New Haven and Hartford system wants to handle as much freight as possible to and from the paper plant over its lines and the man who took up the matter with the mill owners wanted much information relative to the resumption of work here and he was given to understand that Freeman's Point will soon be a busy place and the mill owners assured him that the plant will do a big business.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford man, accompanied by local railroad officials, took a trip along the water front where he viewed the docks and surroundings.

What effect his trip to this city will have concerning the river and docks no one can say but the encouraging news he obtained from the owners of the paper mill will give another black eye to the calamity howlers and check the work of those who are crying out another gold brick scheme.

Heavy Docket for the April Term of Superior Court

Exeter, April 9.—The Woman's Relief corps has chosen Mrs. Annie Manning, Mrs. Grace Goodwin, Mrs. Mildred Fifeid and Mrs. Annie Shaw as delegates to represent the order at the annual convention which meets at Concord on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Miss Florence Moore, Mrs. James Eastman, Miss Lillie Shaw, and Mrs. Perley Cilley have been chosen as alternates.

Roy A. Elkins, who has formerly been in the employ of the Exeter and Hampshire Electric company, has resigned his position to accept one in the same capacity, as bookkeeper and stenographer, with Bradley's garage at Dover.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carl Yeaton was buried on Friday afternoon.

A very enjoyable social dance was held by the Third company, C. A. C. at the town hall Friday evening, music being furnished by Hett and Marden of Portsmouth. The committee of arrangements consisted of Privates Hanson and Cilly, and Corporals Carter, Blake and Noonan.

The Academy baseball practice was held on Friday afternoon on the old campus, but the weather was too raw and cold for good work. There were some new candidates out, among the number being Oscar Pearson, of the football eleven and Leet, a new man for the position of catcher. The work consisted of the usual preliminary drills, and the squad was sent in early.

George Connors on Friday had a large number of Academy athletes running around the track on Plympton field, but some of the best men have not yet come out. Not much work was held for the sprinters. The dates for the track team are: May 4 the annual spring meet, May 7, Harvard freshman dual meet at Exeter, May 14 Yale interscholastic meet at New Haven, May 21, Harvard interscholastic meet at Cambridge, and May 20 the annual dual meet with Andover at Exeter.

Mable, associate editor of the Outlook; April 24, President Flavel S. Luther, of Trinity college; May 1, Prof. Andrew H. Ward, of Milton Academy, Milton, Mass.; May 8, President Albert Parker Fitch, of the Andover Theological Seminary, Cambridge, Mass.; May 15, Dr. W. W. A public hearing on the high school question will be held at the probate court room on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. All interested should attend and state their views.

Judge Robert G. Pike will preside over the term of superior court which opens in Exeter Tuesday, April 19. The docket contains 314 civil actions, 109 equity cases, 21 state actions and appeals and four cases in sessions.

A daughter, Edith May, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Horace M. Churchill, of Deerfield, at the Exeter Cottage hospital, on Wednesday, April 7.

At the annual union meeting in Haverhill Wednesday of the Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill dental societies, Dr. Charles H. Gerrish gave a clinic on "The Future Dentistry."

The regular meeting of the Woman's Relief corps of April 13, will be omitted because of the convention to be held at Concord which many will attend.

The meeting of the Renaissance club, which was scheduled for April 11, will be postponed till April 15.

Rev. Herbert R. Quimby, who was appointed a pastor of the Methodist church here at the conference at Tilton last week, will assume his duties on Sunday morning. He comes here from Hampton where he was appointed to the pastorate of that church, and also supplying at Schittstown in 1909. He is a graduate from the Stevens high school at Claremont, the University Law school, and has been a member of the New Hampshire conference since 1891. Former pastors have been at Brookline, 1891; Peterborough, 1892; Salem, 1893-94; Milford and Amherst, 1895-96; Moultonborough, 1897-98; Groveton, 1899-1902; Canaan Street and Canaan, 1903-04; Haverhill, Mass. (Third church), 1905; Derry, 1906-08, and Hampton and Smithtown, 1909.

Theatrical Topics

Footlight Flashes

Low Fields has taken a step forward in his "Old Dutch." Gradually he is getting away from the lower level of horse play, and presenting his friends and admirers with a "real" comedy, in which the fun is just as fast, the music just as pleasing and the spectators laugh at the outcome without feeling ashamed of themselves. He no longer resorts to grotesque make ups and plays nearer straight. To be sure, he is exaggerating a little when he appears as the hostler, and again as the dancing gypsy, yet these are but reminders of the past, while his various other scenes are most of the legitimate order and decidedly clever.

Miss Zabelle will not be with her husband when he makes his "coast to coast" tour in that Cohan comedy classic next season. Miss Zabelle does not like to get too far away from her estate on Long Island, where she is building a home to replace the one destroyed by fire in September last, and so the fair Flora will become George M. Cohan's leading lady in that author actor's play he will present himself in at the new George M. Cohan theatre, now in course of construction at Forty-third street and Broadway, New York city, and which will be dedicated early in September of the current year.

Ada Dwyer, Ernest C. Joy and Roy Fairchild will sail for London to prepare for Gertrude Elliott's company in the Liebler production in the English capital of "The Dawn of a Tomorrow." The rest of the company will be engaged in London.

Fanny Ward has a vaudeville playlet called "An Unlucky Star," in which one of the characters carries on the action of the piece from the audience.

Lawrence Irving has a play of American life called "The Eternal Instant," by Harrison Rhodes, one of the authors of "A Gentleman from Mississippi."

Barle Browne, an actor in the cast of "Alias Jimmy Valentine," has written a play which will be produced by the Liebler company, with Wilton Lackaye in the leading role. William Herbert of "The Third Degree" company has been playing character old men parts in this country since 1874. His first appearance was Aug 17 of that year at Wallack's theatre, New York, with John L. Toole in "Wing and Gown."

Since the success of the new musical piece, "The Balkan Princess," in London there has been a lively scramble by managers on this side to secure the American rights. William A. Brady, who has not produced a musical play in many years, announces that he has had contracts for "The Balkan Princess" signed, sealed and delivered for over a month. Frank Curzon, the London producer, is a friend and an admirer of the "little Irishman," and long ago promised Brady that if anything really big ever went Curzon's way Brady should have it.

Minna Gale, the talented actress, who returned to the stage with Viola Allen in "The White Sister," has been enthusiastically welcomed throughout the country. The reviewers seem a unit in declaring that the return of such an actress is a distinct gain to the American stage.

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," presented by an English company is on tour in England, where its 1200th performance impends. It is billed as the "famous play of eccentric American character."

Hannah and Rhea Hess, twin sisters, are two pet little dancers in "Old Dutch." Ned Wayburn, Mr. Fields' general stage director, tells with much gusto as a joke on himself the fact that he had to take each girl with her name in order that he could distinguish them at rehearsals.

"The Man Who Owns Broadway," is to be made over for London as "The Man Who Owns Piccadilly." George Edwards thinks that the Cohan piece localized for London will be a certain hit.

Charles Klein, author of "The Third Degree," is working on a new play for Rose Stahl.

Victor Davidson, who will be with Edith Scher this season as her leading man, is one of the best known of English tenors. He created the leading role in "Havana" in London.

Henry Koller, who joined the New theatre company recently has disposed of his first play to Hunter & Bradford, who intend to produce it with a special cast, headed by the author, at Pearson opera house in Hartford the middle of June. The play, a modern drama of American affairs, is in four acts and is entitled "The Moral Right."

George P. Huntley, who has always appeared in New York in "silly" roles, is to get away from that style of humor when he appears in "Caste" which will be produced in the Empire theatre by Mr. Charles Frohman late this season. Mr. Huntley will be Eccles in the famous old play.

This is William H. Crane's forty-seventh season on the stage. He made his debut in Utica, N. Y., July 13, 1863, in "The Daughter of the Regiment." Ever since he became a star, thirty-two years ago, William H. Crane has kept a diary, giving the dates, theaters, receipts, weather conditions, etc., of all his engagements.

She returned with them to New Jersey at Christmas time to visit her son, and spent her eighty-first birthday happily in her own home. For twenty years Mrs. French had suffered such pain as few are called upon to bear, yet through it all, she kept a cheerful disposition, and tried to forget her affliction in doing for those around her. She was loved and esteemed by all who knew her, and the children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren, who survive her feel keenly the loss of the dear one, ever so devoted to their interests.

E. church in this town. His age was 85 years. The body was brought here last Saturday and services were held at the Congregational church Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. John C. Prince. WRITERS "PAN" LEGISLATORS

Prominent Man Roughly Handled at Albany Dinner

"DEACON MOE" IS PRESENT

Hands Envelopes to Guests With Injunction Not to Get Them Mixed With Anybody Else's.—Black Flag For the "Old Guard"—Bwana Tumbo Appears to Halt the Burial of "Tim" Woodruff

Albany, April 9.—Around the state capitol every one of an official capacity is wreathed in smiles as the various "pannings" handed out to the more prominent legislators at the annual dinner of the Legislative Correspondents' League are discussed and told over and over again.

Many officials of national prominence were roughly handled. There were soups, jokes and jests dealing with events at the capital that might have rubbed some one the wrong way if every one had not fallen into the spirit of the occasion and joined in the merriment with a right good will.

Governor Hughes, Lieutenant Governor White, Speaker Wadsworth, Timothy L. Woodruff, William J. Connors and scores of state officers, legislators and men prominent in public life throughout the state were there to enjoy the shafts of quip and jest, which flashed across the banquet hall.

While the members were assembling in the lobby of the Ten Eyck a member of the association dressed to represent Deacon "H" Moe of Groton, in an invertebrate coat, square topped derby hat and carrying a large carpet bag, with the inscription "H. G. M., Groton, N. Y.," circulated among them. He approached Governor Hughes and other prominent guests, handing to each an envelope labelled: "Don't get mixed with anybody else's."

The banquet hall was elaborately decorated with American flags, palms and flowers. One end of the long room was reserved as a memorial to the "Old Guard." There was not a touch of red, white and blue on the wall. Instead it was hung with the interlaced black flag, having in the center a skull and crossbones. Under the flag was the inscription: "It's better to nail the black flag to the masthead than to run up the white flag of surrender."—Bill Barnes.

Near this were two other inscriptions: "The old guard dies, but never surrenders," and "Don't cheer, boys." A Democratic class was called beginning with "Willie" Gaynor, but another member said that "Willie" Gaynor wouldn't come because he heard the White House calling.

While the diners were trying to pay attention to some of the speeches the lights went out and there was a loud blast of horns, crashing of drums and rolls of thunder.

Then in the blaze of a spotlight appeared "Bwana Tumbo" in African costume, with a gun strapped across his shoulder. He announced emphatically that he would not have "A Return from Elba." "They tell me Root is trying to bury 'Tim' Woodruff," said he. "That is absurd, ridiculous! Woodruff has been dead so long that it is a waste of time."

The spotlight was turned off and when the lights of the dining room blazed forth again Mr. Roosevelt had disappeared.

VAHEY WILL BE CANDIDATE

That is Unless There is Strong Demand For Someone Else

Boston, April 9.—James H. Vahey will not be withdrawn from the contest for the Democratic nomination for governor unless it can be pointed out to him that there is a greater demand for another candidate. This is practically the attitude that he takes in a formal statement on his position.

Mr. Vahey states that it is not his purpose to wreck the Democratic party by holding out against Congressman Foss or any other candidate. He proposes to make it plain, however, that in his opinion no other candidate nominated by the party can possibly win except with his support.

Two Persons Remain in Air Two Hours and Twenty Minutes

Cahons-Sur-Marne, France, April 9.—Daniel Kinet, a Belgian, broke the world's record for a flight with a passenger when with a companion he arose in an aeroplane and remained in the air for two hours and twenty minutes, covering 102 miles.

At Berlin last September, Orville Wright, with a passenger, made a flight of one hour and thirty-five minutes' duration.

Burglars Aided by Fire

New York, April 9.—Burglars, that they might rob the apartments in the confusion following, started a fire that caused fifteen families in the double apartment house at 338 Sutter avenue, Brooklyn, to flee to the street in their night clothes in a panic. The men secured jewelry worth $800.

SWINDLED OUT OF $4300

Another Victim of Florida Fake Race Game Is Mourning His Loss

New York, April 9.—Word has been wired to the New York police from Jacksonville, Fla., that a part of the band of swindlers that duped Henry Wagner had victimized another man in the same way that Wagner was robbed of $10,000. The New York authorities are asked to watch for the swindlers.

Simon Jacobson of Tarboro, N. C., told the Jacksonville police that several men had swindled him out of $4300 on a fake horse race in St. Augustine. He met the men on a train and consented to go to St. Augustine with them to act as stakeholder. He said the men entrusted him with "hundreds of thousands" of dollars that they were to bet on the race, and he put his own money in the satchel. The horse swindlers bet on fell. The jockey was supposedly killed. A fusillade of shots rang out. Jacobson was told to run for his life. He ran.

"We'll meet you in Washington," the swindlers shouted.

Two blocks away Jacobson woke up. He thought the thing queer and returned to see his friends, but they had disappeared.

PRIZE FIGHT FATALITY

Solar Plexus Blow Results in Death of Passaic Schoolboy

Passaic, N. J., April 9.—Gilbert Trebou died here last night from a solar plexus blow received in a boys' prize fight last Tuesday.

With brief intermissions, he had been unconscious since he was lifted out of the ring and carried to a hospital. Frank Keizer, who is named in a warrant as the other principal, is missing, and the police hear he has fled to Canada.

Henry Knackstedt, said to have acted as referee, who is superintendent of a Presbyterian Sunday school here, was arrested and released in $500 bail.

Trehou and Keizer were both 19 years old, both pupils of the Passaic high school. Reports of their quarrel differ, but the story placed together by the police is that there had been bad blood between them for some time.

BEACH SHOWS BARRED BY CHICAGO POLICE

Censor Will Pass Upon All the Bathing Costumes

Chicago, April 9.—Police censorship of bathing costumes has been established in Chicago with the adoption of new rules for swimming beaches. The rules governing costumes laid down by Chief of Police Steward follow:

Extremely bizarre costumes must not be worn.

Women who wear costumes that they do not care to get wet will have to have them made of modest design, or they will be ordered off the sands.

Men who appear on the sands merely to pose as athletes will be ordered away.

Bloomers without skirts will not be tolerated.

A censor will stand at dressing-room doors to pass upon all costumes.

TAX COLLECTOR INDICTED

Pittsburg Graft Witnesses Charged With Withholding Facts

Pittsburg, April 9.—A true bill charging Max G. Leslie, collector of delinquent taxes in Allegheny county, with bribery, was returned by the grand jury. Leslie is charged with receiving $25,000 from the Columbia National bank of Pittsburg on June 3, 1908.

A sweeping presentment was also handed down with general charges that many of the 125 witnesses which the grand jury has had before it during the graft investigations thus far have wilfully withheld facts as to municipal corruption and a certain few have practically been guilty of perjury.

DENIES REPORTED DENIAL

Cody Says Relations With Wife Are Amicable and Satisfactory

New York, April 9.—Colonel W. F. Cody declares that a dispatch from Cody, Wyo., saying he had denied the reported reconciliation between himself and Mrs. Cody is erroneous and entirely without foundation.

The colonel states that his relations with Mrs. Cody are most amicable and satisfactory and that he sent no such letter as that referred to in the dispatch from Cody.

Eddy Birthplace Is Burned

MAC VEAGH AND KNOX REMAIN

Stories of Disruption in Taft Cabinet Are Denied

TREASURY HEAD POPULAR

Held in Highest Personal Regard Even by Men Whose Spirits He Has Ruffled by His Advocacy of Low Tariff—Secretary of State Has Not Intended to Close Friends That He Intends to Resign

Washington, April 9.—President Taft and two of his cabinet, Secretary of State Knox and Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, have denied the story which went out from Washington that the two secretaries contemplate resigning. The denials of Taft and Knox were made informally but emphatically and MacVeagh promptly issued a little bulletin in which he said:

"I have no thought of retiring from the cabinet. I do not know where these stories that are continually being printed in the newspapers originate, but I know that they are entirely unfounded."

The stories to which MacVeagh refers have trickled out from time to time from various correspondents, but never upon any authority more substantial than a guess. MacVeagh is not a rugged man and on many days this winter he has transacted official business in his home instead of his office, but he has been in his office every day of late and has assured all callers that he is as "fit as a fiddle" to perform the duties of his position. The secretary has disagreed with Senator Aldrich and some other leaders on points of policy, notably the issue of bonds and the tariff, but the serenity with which he has discussed these differences is wholly at variance with the suggestion that the secretary feels uncomfortable in his position.

Mr. MacVeagh is perhaps the most likeable man in the cabinet, and even the men whose spirits he has ruffled by his low tariff utterances hold him in the highest personal regard. With the assistance of his new assistant secretaries, Norton, Hilles and Curtis, he has practically reorganized the treasury department.

Denials mean nothing in such cases as that of Knox, for they could be expected, as a matter of traditional diplomacy, up to the moment the resignation was handed in. If that action really were contemplated. The most that the senatorial intimates of Knox will say on the matter is that in all their many and confidential talks with him he never has so much as intimated that he intended to leave the cabinet.

Regarding the suggestion that Knox has been neglectfully treated by President Taft and never permitted to reach the full and promised measure of "premier" of the Taft administration, it is pointed out by the friends of Knox that he has been backed up by the president in every official act even in the Charles R. Crane case.

Stories of "friction" with the president are dismissed as untrue, but it is not denied that the state department has resented the prominence of the tariff board, and that the treasury department has regarded the state department as superfluous machinery, except for the formalities, in negotiating the trade agreements with foreign countries, notably Canada, under the tariff law.

SUGAR TRUST FINED $500

In Contempt For Not Producing Its Books For Federal Grand Jury

New York, April 9.—Judge Lacombe of the United States circuit court adjudged the American Sugar Refining company in contempt of court and fined the corporation $500.

The contempt consisted in the failure to respond to the subpoena calling for the production of two books of accounts before the federal grand jury.

The company based its refusal to respond to the subpoena on the ground that there were legal and constitutional questions involved, and that it proposed to appeal from the order of the court directing the submission of the books.

WALKER GOES TO ASYLUM

Minister Was Charged With Forgery and Uttering a Bad Check

Providence, April 9.—Rev. Raymond E. Walker, who escaped from the state hospital for the insane and who was later found in Boston and returned to the Rhode Island authorities, was arraigned in court here under an indictment charging him with forging and uttering a bad check.

Because of his mental condition Walker was returned to the Rhode Island state hospital for the insane.

Left Home Because Scolded

New York, April 9.—A little miss of 13 found wandering aimlessly along Ninth avenue and questioned by a policeman, finally admitted with many tears that she was Florence Smith of Taunton, Mass., and that she had run away from home because she had been scolded.

BODY DANGLES IN MIDAIR

Telephone Lineman Meets Instant Death Without Emitting a Sound

Boston, April 9.—The body of Peter Mullen, the life taken out of the form through an electric current of 2400 volts, hung by one leg, swaying back and forth on a cable high above the street fronting the hose house at East Milton last evening.

Then came action by the firemen of the district, who put up a ladder, wound a rope about the body of Mullen and lowered the remains to the street that it might be given over to the charge of an undertaker, for physicians announced that death had been instantaneous.

The deadly high tension electric wire that had its place upon the pole along with the telephone cable was the cause of the electrocution. Mullen, who was 30 years old, had gone up the pole to repair the telephone cable. One hand was placed upon the high tension wire, and he died without emitting a sound.

Mullen was employed by the New England Telephone and Telegraph company and was regarded as an expert.

MUCH CONFLICTING ADVICE

President Is in Doubt Regarding His Indiana Engagement

Washington, April 9.—President Taft has said that he would go to Indianapolis; that he would not; that he would, and then again he would consider the matter, "according to equally trustworthy stories told by various public men here."

After promising several public men that he would restore Indianapolis to the central west itinerary, the president received a good deal of advice to the effect that he had better stick to his determination not to visit the city. He has had much advice on each side of the question. Unquestionably he is hard put to know what to do under the circumstances.

While most of the old-time leaders in congress have advised him to go into the state and say anything that is on his mind, some of the members of his cabinet and private citizens in whom he places reliance have said to him that the best way out of the whole unfortunate affair is to adhere to his decision of Wednesday to stay away from Indiana.

FIVE YEARS EACH IN STATE PRISON

New Haven Man and Wife Guilty of White Slave Traffic

New Haven, April 9.—Charles Ross and his wife, Mary, who pleaded guilty to keeping a disorderly house, were sentenced to five years each in state prison, the maximum penalty for the crime.

Ross and his wife, the police allege, are the heads of the white slave traffic in this city, and their arrest was brought about by the attempt of an Italian to poison an inmate of the Ross house.

An examination of the house disclosed a trap door and an underground passage leading out into a rear yard. This passage, an inmate of the house testified, had been used when raids had been made on the place.

TWO GIANT WARSHIPS

House Passes Naval Bill Authorizing Their Construction

Washington, April 9.—Two new battleships of the most modern type, to cost approximately $11,000,000 each, were authorized by the house of representatives.

There was a sharp fight, led by Representative Tawney (Minn.), chairman of the appropriation committee, to limit the authorization to one. The test came on a motion to recommend the naval bill with instructions to the naval committee to report such an amendment.

This was defeated, 109 to 160. The naval bill was then passed without division. The action of the house on the president's battleship program practically assures its ultimate success.

WITH ROCKEFELLER CASH

Persia Would Have Educational Institution Founded in Teheran

Teheran, April 9.—The executive committee of the Association for Intellectual Development in Persia has sent a cablegram to America, begging John D. Rockefeller "in the name of human brotherhood and liberty" to found in Teheran an educational institution through the American legation.

The message adds that "this will bless countless generations, proving an eternal monument to Mr. Rockefeller's beneficence in Persia."

"JEKYLL-HYDE" SLAYER

Bertram Spencer Had a Most Remarkable Career

ANTECEDENTS WERE INSANE

May Be Set Up as Defense For Murderer Spencer

ONCE WOUNDED IN HEAD

This Also May Have Been Source of Criminal Instincts, According to Mother of Young Man With Bad Record—Had Always Been a Model Son and Husband and Was Not Known to Have Faults

Springfield, Mass., April 9.—Bertram Spencer's mother says her son's criminal instincts may possibly be traced to a wound on the head he received at the age of 3 during a beating administered by his father.

Or, she claimed in an interview, the confessed murderer of Miss Blackstone may inherit insanity as his grandfather, William L. Spencer, died in the Middlebury (Conn.) insane hospital, and Helen Dele, a daughter of this man's first wife, was confined in an insane asylum four years.

Mrs. Spencer spent some time with her son in his cell in the Hamilton county jail yesterday. Her allegations regarding his mental irresponsibility is considered to indicate that the defense of the confessed murderer and robber will be insanity.

Bertram G. Spencer is very tall, and his physique is excellent. His shoulders are square and broad. His features are regular and pleasant and his complexion is good. His hair is a soft brown. His eyes are light blue.

He has been a model son and husband. Two years ago he married an 18-year-old girl. To his home he took his mother. The happiness of the home was never broken, even for an instant. Family spats were unknown. He never drank. He never smoked. He seldom swore, and none of his companions ever heard him tell an off-color story. He loved singing. His only absences from his home occurred when he dropped out to sing with a few of his friends, to do an errand for his wife, or to get a breath of fresh air. One child was born into the Spencer family a year ago. Another is expected in a week.

"A week ago I asked for some candy," said Mrs. Spencer. "Bert jumped up immediately, got his hat, and said he would get it for me. Half an hour later he returned. He had the candy."

"But in that half hour he had murdered one person, attempted to kill another and had committed a robbery." "And all the time I never suspected. In the two years we have been married I have never for one moment suspected that he got money in any way that was not perfectly legitimate. But I know it is not his fault. It is the insane streak which has been in his family for generations."

During the entire time that he was at work, and his work has not been limited to Springfield, Spencer has never once fallen under suspicion.

For the past year Spencer has worked as a clerk in Handy's wholesale pork house. After each robbery, and after the murder of Miss Martha Blackstone, Spencer discussed the matters freely with his fellow workmen.

COMMITTEE WANTS PAPERS

Formal Demand Is Made Upon Ballinger by Investigators

Washington, April 9.—The Ballinger-Pinchot investigation committee adopted a motion calling on Secretary Ballinger to supply immediately all the papers and documents that the committee might call for.

When the investigating committee resumed its inquiry Attorney Brandeis took up the issue raised by Ballinger protesting against the production of further papers in the case by the interior department. In a letter to the committee Ballinger had declared that the demands made by the attorney for the production of papers and documents were "an oblique attempt to control the manner in which the evidence should be presented" and "a mere fishing process."

Mr. Brandeis called attention to the fact that Ballinger in his first letter to the committee had said that he desired the fullest investigation; again he had declared that he did not wish to be represented by counsel, but now he appeared with a scheme which Brandeis characterized as "an attempt to withhold evidence."

AMERICANS DO NOT STICK

Crews of Our Vessels Composed Almost Entirely of Foreigners

Washington, April 9.—The waning of the glamour of the sea is keeping the American boy off the crew lists of American steamers and sailing craft more and more, according to witnesses before the house committee on merchant marine.

The committee was considering the bill to amend the laws relative to American seamen to prevent undermanning and unskilled manning of American vessels and to encourage the training of boys in the American merchant marine.

Officials of the coastwise and inland steamship lines testified they would welcome Americanization of their crews if the Americans would stick to the work, but that now they had to use Greeks, Spaniards and other aliens.

THE ROOSEVELTS' NEW HONEYMOON

It Is Somewhat Marred by Too Much Publicity

Genoa, April 9.—The sentimental pilgrimage of Theodore Roosevelt and his wife, in which it was their intention to retrace by easy stages their honeymoon trip from Spezia to Genoa, ended abruptly here, twenty-four hours ahead of the schedule which had been planned.

The change in plans was made to avoid the constantly increasing demonstrations Roosevelt and his wife were encountering along the road. As an instance of the demonstrations that were being accorded them, 600 persons, many of them Americans, acclaimed the Roosevelts with vivas and hurrahs as they left Rapallo, where they had luncheon. This was the climax of their embarrassment, and Roosevelt gave orders to be driven to Genoa.

RAILWAY IS TRANSFERRED

New Haven Road Turns the Hartford Over to Connecticut Company

Hartford, April 9.—Control of the Hartford Street Railway company, which was acquired by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company several years ago, has been transferred to the Connecticut company.

Heretofore the Connecticut company has been the operating agency for the New Haven road's electric properties in Connecticut, but now it is becoming a holding corporation as well. This step is in accordance with the New Haven road's policy of a more complete segregation of the different classes of its properties.

A QUESTION OF CLIMATE

There has not been an international war in South America since Chile and Peru, after brisk and sanguinary campaigns, concluded a treaty of peace in 1884. The terms of this treaty were such as to leave the Peruvians with a grievance of the nature that the French had after the war with Germany. The "lost province" of Tacna-Arica has been since held by Chile without giving its citizens an opportunity to choose which flag they would dwell under permanently, as promised by the Chileans at the end of ten years. In good faith, Chile should have ordered a plebiscite. Had she been strong enough at any time since to compel the keeping of the faith, Peru would have made the broken agreement a casus belli.

The seriousness of the matter for Peru comes mostly from the fact that whenever her foreign relations have proved vexatious, Peru has had to reckon with the attitude of Chile against her. Chile is the dominant power of the west coast and has shown a tendency to discourage any activities on Peru's part which might give the latter a place near the throne in the eyes of the rest of South America. The elongated republic has missed no opportunity in the last half century to weaken the other South American nations, and has acquired a remarkable habit of winning.

The reason for this continual Chilean success is a matter of climate, the Chileans being a people from less torrid regions than the other South Americans.

From the days when the inventiveness of man had made suitable shelters and food storage for the inhabitants of temperate countries, the leadership of the world has been passing from hotten sections. From Syria and Egypt and Southern Europe that leadership has passed to Northern Europe and to the temperate regions of North America. The same cause is working in South America.

The United States naval authorities ought to take note of this and keep the navy out of enervating climates as much as possible.

BIRDSEYE VIEWS

According to the government reports, the average condition of winter wheat on April 1 was 80.8 per cent normal, against 82.2 April 1, 1909, and 87.0 the average for the past ten years on April 1. The decline in condition from Dec. 1, 1909, to April 1, 1910, was 15 points. The average condition of rye was 92.3 per cent of a normal April 1, against 87.2 April 1, 1909, and 89.6 the average for the past ten years on April 1.

The rivers and harbor appropriation bill, as it will be reported from the senate committee on commerce next Monday, will carry $52,536,418 in actual appropriations of cash and amounts involved in continuing contracts. As the bill was passed by the house it carried $42,558,176, of which $35,351,746 represented cash and $7,206,430 continuing contracts.

The total excavation on the Panama canal for the month of March was 3,067,470 cubic yards, place measurement against 2,602,995 cubic yards in February. The concrete work also progressed more rapidly, 90,502 cubic yards being laid, against 75,692 yards in February. The work on the dams, however, showed a slight decrease in the filling compared with February.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

Effect of the Ballinger Charges
There can be no question, accordingly, that Mr. Ballinger's persistence in office is damaging to the party management which tolerates it. Sooner or later the leaders were bound to discern as much. The country is indifferent whether Mr. Ballinger retires by reason of a party exigency or in response to its own manifest desire, whether on account of his "uselessness" to his party or, according to its view, his unfitness for the public service he was summoned to perform.—Providence Journal.

A Good Idea for Every Town

Many of the cities and larger towns in the west set aside a day about this season of the year to be known as housecleaning day. On that day nearly all other business is suspended and the town is given a thorough cleaning from one end to the other. To dilate upon the desirability of such a scrubbing up would be as much of a waste of ink as it would be to argue in favor of an occasional bath for a person. Every schoolboy knows in this age of hygienic enlightenment of the dangers which lurk in filth; to say nothing of the grating upon the properly trained aesthetic sense. This idea of organized housecleaning is supposed to have originated in the west, but there is no sound reason why it should not spread toward the east. In fact it has already gained a foothold in some parts of New England. It's a splendid idea and ought to be taken hold of in the town of Newport. There are many places in this town, and they are not all in obscure locations, which reflect no credit either upon the owners of the authorities. There appears no better way to remedy the difficulty without resorting to heroic means than through a popular move in that direction. Fill the atmosphere with a spirit of cleanliness and the result will inevitably be that that atmosphere will become more safe to inhale, and more pleasing to the organs of olfaction. Here is a hint which might with good results, we believe, be taken up by the "Improvement committee" of the Board of Trade, and in turn if necessary by the board itself. The Champion would much like to see the plan given a fair trial and pledges its support to the work if the committee should take steps in that direction.—Newport Champion.

BISHOP'S PARTY ALL WELL

Word is Sent from the Romanic at the Azores

Manchester, April 9.—A cablegram was received Friday from the White Star steamer Romanic, on which Bishop Guertin and his party sailed last Saturday for Rome.

The cable stated that the steamer arrived at the Azores Friday morning, with all well on board. The good weather made a comfortable trip and the passage was enjoyed by every passenger.

The arrival in Rome will be made within a few days.

Hard Work

Brings Success

KEEP at it, young man. Get the bull-dog grip and keep plugging away. Your whole factory, warehouse, shipping department and office are crowded in a ten by twelve room, third floor back. The proprietor, manager, superintendent, office force, shippers, operators and laborers, occupy one chair whenever you sit down. You have a splendid line, or article. It fills a well-defined want; you have a number of customers, most of whom duplicate right along; and through a vast amount of labor, pains and patience you have things going after a fashion.

But progress is slow—dreadfully slow, you often acknowledge to yourself. There are discouraging difficulties, disheartening experiences. At times your courage wiles, your marrow turns to water, your backbone seems a muslin string, and the dark brown taste is active.

Perk up, young man, for the gods are with you. It is writ large on the book of fate that you shall "get there," yea that you shall arrive with both feet. I am meeting so many proprietors of large establishments who started in a solitary room, just like you, that it seems as though there is a special virtue in such a beginning; and that fate after testing the courage of the aspiring one by difficulties, trials and discouragements, relents and smiles and smiles, and courtously points the way to the magic golden staircase.

I am therefore told to utter words of encouragement. A period of wonderful activity is directly before us, young man. Opportunity is knocking at the doors. It knocks frequently and it uses a sledge. More strugglers will achieve success than ever before, and the success will be larger.

Brains, tenacity, dogged determination will win, young man. Not occasionally, but every time. Use them, and success will be yours.

THE OBSERVER.

LOVE'S QUERIES

Tell me, tell me, tell me pray,
Why you turn your head away,
Why you shrug those shoulders small,
Every time you hear me call?
Why you veil those lovely eyes,
When I meet them by surprise?
Or assume that pretty calm,
Is it all in love's alarm?
Lest you show you care for me
As I vow I care for thee?

Tell me, tell me, tell me pray,
S'pose some day I go away
With another maid than you,
Then what will my lady do?
Perchance no other man may care
For the sunshine of her hair,
Nor for the little hands I hold
As love makes its queries bold;
Then, mayhap you'll long for me
As today I long for thee.

Tell me, tell me, tell me pray,
What to do, that I may stay
Here forever by thy side,
Till the life of me has died?
You do not take your hands away,
Does that mean that I may stay?
Ah! my darling now I see
Why you hide your face from me,
For you love me now today,
As I've loved you all the way.
—M. D. L. I. B.

Robust Old Gentleman (to sick lady)—When I came here first, I hadn't strength to utter a word. I had scarcely a hair on my head. I couldn't walk across the room, and had to be lifted from my bed.
Sick Lady—You give me hope, kind sir. How were you cured?
Robust Old Gentleman—I was born here.

In Gloucester, Mass., the Board of Trade recently decided to issue 50,000 copies of a leaflet called a "Greater Gloucester creed," which will be spread broadcast. The object of spreading the creed about is to homify that city, and substituting wherever the word Gloucester is the name Portsmouth it would seem to me that it would be something that Portsmouthites might with profit copy and follow. The creed is as follows:

I believe in Gloucester, her people and her interests.

I believe in her natural beauties and attractions.

I believe in her fishermen and the future of her fisheries.

I believe in attracting and welcoming summer people.

I believe in industrial development for Gloucester and in pushing for such advance now.

I believe that every dollar spent for good roads will bring many dollars' worth of taxable property into the city. Dollars for the mechanics, the hotels and the merchants.

I believe that when I spend a dollar out of town that I could spend in Gloucester I am doing my city an injury.

I believe in commending and not condemning. If I can only help by my voice, I will give that help or keep quiet.

I believe in a bright future for my city as I know her illustrious past.

So believing, I shall spend my dollar in Gloucester, where I may get it back as it rolls along.

Now that the season for baseball is here and fans are discussing the certainties and uncertainties of the teams in this city and the neighboring towns it reminds me that interest in the national game had laid dormant in the nearby town of Kittery for quite a few years, until the year 1902, when a number of the young men of that place formed a club and awakened once more the lovers of the sport to the fact that much good material was being brought to the surface. The following winter the interest did not wane and a big fair was held from which a good sum was realized, and early in the spring of 1903 a field was secured, a diamond laid out and the season opened; the team playing to crowds of enthusiastic rooters. The following men, all then residents of Kittery, formed the line-up: Paul P. Curran, c. Bunker B. Johnson, 2b, Able B. Sullivan, ss, Lamlere J. Philbrick, cf, Gerry R. The following year Hutton joined the team, holding down the bag at short stop. Since the forming of the original team there have been many changes, and this season sees but three, Paul, Bunker, and Able, still holding down the sacks, the others having given up active part in the game, and are scattered over the country. The coming season promises, from what can be gathered from Kitterytes, to be a big one, and if the games are attended as in the past by rooters from not only the home town, but from this city there will be some lively enthusiasm among the fans in the little town across the river.

The small boy will need to commence early saving his pennies for the circus and Fourth of July; they come within three days of each other.

The coming of Forepaugh and Sells Brothers circus on July 1 brings to mind the fact that spaces large enough for the big shows are fast disappearing. Many of our readers will remember when, fifty years ago, one had only to walk as far as Cabot street, where all the big circuses pitched their tents on the big field which extended from the easterly corner of Cabot and Islington street to the Eastern railroad track, now the Boston and Maine. Later, when that camping ground was sold for building purposes the traveling menageries had to look elsewhere and the big field where the Mont house now stands on Middle street was occupied up to about fifteen years ago when that location had to be given up and since then the Hall field near the South cemetery, and the present field at Christian Shore have been used.

A new system of telephone is being installed by some of the up to date churches in the larger cities. They are to enable those hard of hearing the better to catch what the preacher is saying. There is a transmitter in the pulpit and the wires lead from there to the various pews where receivers are attached to the end of the wire. The person on the end of the wire, even though nearly deaf, can hear the sermon fully as well as those whose hearing is not impaired.

President Taft's advocacy of economy in public expenditures has evidently struck a responsive chord in an individual signaling himself, "A $500 Clerk," who claims to have saved the government sundry small amounts last year by the careful use of ink and lead pencils. He expresses hope of long life "for this economic administration." The letter was addressed to Secretary MacVane in the following words:

"During the past year, by omitting to cross my t's or dot my i's I have saved the government two cents in ink. Will you please add this to my salary? I am using my lead pencils down to one-half inch. I hope in this to save another cent. Long live this economical administration.

"I am short of paper or I would write a longer letter. We are one year nearer the netherhouse."

WOMAN'S WORLD.

A WHITE SERGE SUIT.

Of course, it is perishable, but that does not preclude the possibility of its adaptation, for white serge is the sturdy material that can withstand admirably the wear of a visit to the cleaner's. There is a certain niche that the white serge suit fills, and wise is she who can plan to add one to the wardrobe of the coming season.

In the first place, do not make the mistake of selecting a skirt too heavily pleated for the weight will be unbearable, but choose rather the pattern which has the straight panel at the front and the introduction of pleats at the side.

On the jacket, which to be strictly up to date, must be hip length, the suggestion of black is always excellent. A narrow band of silk is effective when outlining the cuffs or collar, and many models are showing the use of heavy silk braid and cord of white.

If you decide upon revers, they must be long, the first fastening at the waist line, or just a little above. The sleeves have very little fullness and the buttons are extremely large.

Frequently a square, pointed or rounded tab of the material is folded up over the lower edge of the jacket to cover the lower edge of the jacket to be embroidered, braided or plain, with a buttonhole and button.

And when lining this, select a soft silk with an allover design in cashmere colors. It is the latest thing.

NEW TRAVELING GOWNS.

The bride's traveling dress may be of any fabric and cut she prefers. Perhaps the best way of indicating the wide variety these dresses may take will be to describe a few of those prepared for late April brides of prominence in the fashionable world. One of these is a molé colored cloth dress of which a long straight coat forms a part. The buttons of the latter are self colored, but capped with a star in embroidery of the same color. The hat to be worn with it is of crumpled straw. There is a high, stiff band of black velvet around the crown, and at the left side where the brim rolls upward slightly, there is a curious mass of bouillon-neres composed of perfect little pink roses and pansies. These and the velvet against the mole straw have a charmingly artistic effect.

GUIMPES.

Guimpes are now chosen of material of strange and lovely effects. No longer need the guimpe, which, you will remember, is quite shallow, be of cream lace. Metallic tissues veiled with mull, tulle of a flesh color, steel nets interwoven with beads, cobweb gauzes and fancy grenadine form the latest relief at the neck and throat.

Many of these have a line tracery of color, silver or gold, secured by a running thread, frequently added on the under surface of the mesh. There is a conspicuous absence of tucks and here is the danger signal for the home dressmaker. The perfect fit of the guimpe must be insisted upon, for the plain expanse of transparent tissue relies upon an unrippled surface for an effect that does not smack of the amateurish.

An important meeting of the Portsmouth Country club is to be held on Monday evening.

ONE MOMENT PLEASE!

Electric Sign advertising is no longer an experiment. The most successful firms of world-wide reputation as well as the stores with whom we have done business give us facts that prove the advertising worth of Electric Signs to be far in excess of any method of advertising that has ever been devised for the amount expended.

Look for the most enterprising city of today and you will find one that uses Electric Signs on all available locations and where merchants appreciate the advertising value and use light. I am making and selling the best signs that can be produced, not the cheapest, but signs that will stand up and give service for years. Recent inventions have reduced the cost and also the cost of maintaining. Public spirit and civic pride demand well lighted business sections in our cities, why not do your part with a well lighted, artistic Electric Sign and increase your business as well.

I charge nothing for estimates or sketches and am always willing to explain details and serve your interests. Respectfully yours,

The Newington Opera company

No better exhibition of stage talent

comedy "The Village Schoolma'am" was a decided hit.

Ben Beane treated his friends to a genuine surprise, and in the role of Hosea Clegg, he was excellent, reedly proud of his work.

Ralph Morrison, as the commercial traveler, and Allen deRochemont, as postmaster, added to their laurels in their love parts, and the boys say they furnished the real thing.

The performance was staged under the direction of Arthur Schurman and the people of the town are universal in their opinion that as a director he knows his business from A to Z.

The cast was as follows:

CERTAIN RESULTS
Many a Portsmouth Citizen Knows
How Sure They Are

Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Portsmouth. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical doubter. Read the following statement:
Charles E. Oliver, 3 Coffin's Court, Portsmouth, N. H., says: "Standing for hours brought a constant strain on my kidneys and I finally began to have kidney complaint. My back was so lame at times that I could hardly attend to my work and I was also troubled by headaches and spells of dizziness. When I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box and began their use, following the directions closely. The pains in my back and other symptoms of kidney complaint soon left me and I felt much better in every way. The cure has since proven to be a permanent one and I therefore advise anyone suffering from disordered kidneys to try Doan's Kidney Pills."

FINE SCHOOL EXHIBITION

SAMPLES OF WORK OF ALL THE SCHOLARS BEING SHOWN AT HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING.

The annual exhibition of the work of the scholars of the public schools is being held at the high school building, beginning on Friday and continuing today. It is, without any exception, the finest ever held by the schools and well worth a visit by everybody, who is at all interested in the schools. As a matter of fact, it is a duty that every parent owes to their children to visit it.

The exhibition this year is the most thorough of any year, for the reason that Superintendent MacDougall has widened the scope of the exhibit and included samples of work of every scholar in the schools. Previous years just the best work was selected for the exhibition, but in the opinion of everybody, this is much the better scheme, as every parent is principally interested in the work of their own children, and looks for it first.

The exhibition embraces the work of the scholars from the kindergarten to the last class in the high school and there are samples of every scholar's work and of every branch of the work.

The work of the children from the kindergarten to the eighth grade is shown in the Assembly hall, the kindergarten having the east side of the hall and the primaries the west side, while the other grades are about the hall. Every room is represented as a separate exhibition, with the teacher in charge and present, and anxious to show the work of their scholars. The high school exhibits are in the library on the second floor.

It is interesting to trace the work of the grades from the kindergarten where the little people are taught various things that train the eye and hands, then the first grade where they are taught the outline cutting from description, and the work of some of the scholars in this and the second grade, in this regards is truly remarkable. Up through the different grades with the writing, drawing and number work, until the high school is reached.

The exhibition of the high school is, of course, very thorough, if not as interesting as that of the lower grades. There is one branch of the high school work that is deserving of special mention, for the reason that it is a new department and little understood. This is the manual training, and the exhibition is one that everybody connected with it should be proud of. The exhibition consists of samples of the cabinet making, wood turning and mechanical drawings. The wood work is excellent. Some of it would be a credit to an old time cabinet maker, and it is a remarkable demonstration of what can be done in a short time by boys who have a liking for that kind of work. The mechanical drawings are also very excellent, in fact worthy of a much advanced grade, and while admired by the ordinary observer, they were thoroughly appreciated by the mechanical experts who visited the exhibition. The exhibition is a convincing argument of the value of this department and the great need of further extending it.

ELECTRICITY IN A COTTAGE

Are you getting ready to spend the summer at a cottage on the shore? One of the neighboring shore towns? If so you want to keep the cottage cool and comfortable and provide that the care of it and of the household work shall be as little as possible. The way to do that is to have electric lights for cottage and piazza and electric appliances for the kitchen. The Rockingham County Light and Power Company has lines to those towns and is prepared to help you to summer comfort.

Theatrical Topics

"The Soul Kiss"

The English kiss is chilly. The Scottish kiss is sincere. The kiss of the Italian woman is easily given, intense, but not backed by love. The Spanish woman has the most passionate kiss in the world. The French kiss is experienced—and mercenary. The kiss of the American girl is sweet but it often lacks temperamental backing.

Do you know how to kiss? Is it a gentle snuggle or an epoch of the fundamental age? Is it a salute or an everloving delirium? If you haven't got out of a kiss all there is in it, there's a man coming to town with musical entertainment, "The Soul Kiss," that can tell you the reason why. He has made a study of it, an exhaustive and systematic study, and he can tell you just how the kisses of the nations vary.

J. Anthony Smyth, the man who is soul. Every position is a different mood, a mood of reaching desire, a mood of utter abandon, a mood of acquiescence, a spirit of purity, a spirit of curiosity, a spirit of calculating barter. To those who study and know the position, the expressions of the body as well as the expressions of the face, all mean something, and he who runs may read. There is as much character or lack of character expressed in a kiss as in anything in the world.

J. Anthony Smyth is a slightly built man of the Latin type of features with very black hair and blue eyes. He confesses of Italian ancestry on one side of the family, which accounts, perhaps, for the fervor with which he plays his part.

All the kisses on the stage are real kisses, he explained. "I don't see how one could portray the temptation unless one had been moved."

ROBERT LETT and MILE PRAGER as "MEPHISTO and THE DANCER" in The Soul Kiss at Music Hall, Wednesday Evening, April 13.

searching for "The Soul Kiss," gives six kinds of kisses in his play of the name. But there are more than six kinds, says Mr. Smyth. There are as many different kinds of kisses, as there are different kinds of people, plus different emotions, in the world. The six used in the play are fairly general types. The first is the Carmen kiss, the kiss of passion. It is of the body, not the soul. The second is the Marguerite kiss, the kiss of the stage, meaningless, although it looks well. The third is the most intense of all, the Cleopatra kiss, the kiss of the oriental type. There is no word to describe it, nothing to be said in disparagement of it. It is the kiss that men gladly lose everything for—and yet, they lose.

The fourth is the French dancing girl's kiss. It is pleasing but mercenary. The woman gives her lips, and nods an invitation at you. The fifth is the Gibson type kiss. It is picturesque but chilly. Last is the formal kiss, when Mile. Prager extends her hand.

I have travelled in Europe, looking for new types of kisses. This last summer I travelled through England, Scotland, Italy, Spain and France. The kisses of these various countries vary as much as anything could be imagined. The kiss of the English girl is the Gibson type; they are chilly. The kiss of the Scotch girl is sincere. It is not emotional, but it comes from the heart, and cannot be bought. The kiss of the Italian woman is easily given. It is fervent, but not backed by love. The flower girls on the street press bouquets upon you, and you can have a kiss for the taking.

The Spanish woman has the most passionate kiss in the world. It is hard to get, but when she does, she abandons herself to it. The kisses of the French women are easily gotten. They are pleasant, very pleasant, but they are mercenary, and they are the kiss of experience. The kiss of the American girl is sweet, but it often lacks the backing of temperament. The ideal kiss is not given with the lips alone. It is given with every atom of the whole body and that intangible something called the heart and

To an interviewer it seemed somewhat of a farce. To Mr. Smyth it seemed inexplicable that he should have been surprised. "Just realism," he explained, innocently, "just realism." "But doesn't it make you embarrassed to kiss all those women that way, every evening?" queries the newspaper man. "Why embarrassed?" he answered. "I was playing a part. The devil tries to tempt me with the kisses of these women. How could I be tempted with a stage kiss?" And that was unanswerable. "Do you know," he added, "The ideal kiss is pretty well described in the play, the kiss that rises from the heart to the lips, the soul kiss. It is what everyone looks for and very few of us find."

The "Soul Kiss" will be at the Music Hall next Wednesday evening.

EXTRA GOOD VAUDEVILLE AT MUSIC HALL

The vaudeville and motion picture show at Music Hall is the best since the house changed to the present policy.

The vaudeville headed by the U. S. Singing Four, a novelty quartet act, is very good and they responded to several encores.

Brian Musette, a dainty singing and dancing soubrette, is making a hit, she possesses a good voice and sings some catchy songs with plenty of spirit.

Austin and Sweet in their comedy sketch, "The Bell Boy and the Actress," keeps the audience in an uproar of laughter from the start to the finish.

The picture program, consisting of six reels of the best LITAIONNAOI six of the best subjects in comedy and dramatic, was well appreciated by the audience.

Today's program will include the releases of Gaumont, Pathe Freres and Vitagraph.

Accidents will happen, but the best-regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

PAPER DOLL PARTY.

Nevel Affair Planned to Amuse the Little Ones.

A clever hostess provided an enjoyable party for her little girl, something that was truly pleasant for all. It was called a paper doll party, and the children had no idea, of course, what this party was to be like, until they arrived and the hostess informed them that a good fairy had come the night before and left pretty paper dolls for them, but they would have to go in search of them. The yard was very large, so it was a long time before they found the paper dolls hidden among the rosebushes and flowers. In one place would be a very large doll; another very little doll, so tiny it could scarcely be seen, was found among the hollyhocks, and dolls of every description were picked up by the children. The hostess was clever enough to dress all dolls in green, purple, blue, and red, so the search for them among green leaves was not so easy as you might imagine. Of course the little girl who found the most fairy paper dolls received a reward, but it was merely a paper doll much larger and more nicely dressed. This would be great fun for the wee tots and something entirely new.

Children's parties often result in much loss of china, for the best brought up youngsters until they reach years of discretion cannot be relied upon to restrain their destructive tendencies. One's own boys and girls can be controlled when they are by themselves, but when they have youthful guests parental authority is harder to exercise. That drawback to the average juvenile entertainment is offset by using paper articles for the table. A single small box contains a whole outfit. First, there is a tablecloth neatly folded and looking exactly like damask. The pattern is so beautifully imitated that a few feet away it is impossible to distinguish the flimsy paper tablecloth from the expensive linen one. A little care has to be taken in smoothing the paper "cloth" on the table, for the paper tears easily. Paper plates are so cheap no one need hesitate about laying in a large stock of them, and as they require no washing they are a labor-saving investment for a party. The paper dinner napkins and center spreads specially designed for party use are decorated to match the plates.

THE CARE OF LAMPS.

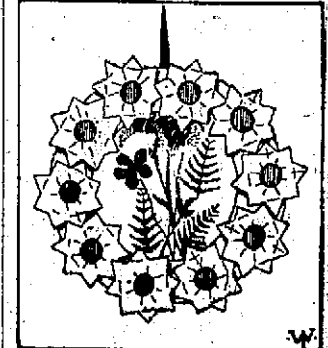

Wicks and Burners Should Be Boiled Once a Month.

Among the many artificial lights there is none other that gives such a soft, warm, pleasing radiance as the time honored kerosene lamp, and it is still the rule in the majority of homes. Its greatest disadvantage lies in the constant attention necessary to keep it clean, for not only is a smoking lamp an injury to the eyes, but it is a menace to the health as well.

The ordinary cleaning may be reduced to a simple filling and wiping of lamps and a washing of chimneys. Once a month give the lamp a thorough cleaning. Remove the wicks from the burners and place both in a kettle kept for the purpose, in which should be placed a heaping teaspoonful of soda for each quart of water. Let this boil for half an hour. Empty the lamps of oil and wash well inside and out. Remove the wicks from the kettle, wash in a mild suds, rinse in clear water and spread in a warm place until dry. Remove the burners and wash; the black, crusty accumulations will be gone and the burners will be bright and shining. When all are thoroughly dry fill the lamps and place burners and wicks in position. This cleaning requires less time and brings better results than many scorings, and the light will be clear and bright. At some seasons of the year, when lamps are used much, it may be found desirable to repeat this process oftener, while at other times the intervals may be longer.

For the Nursery Window.

For nursery windows a wild flower transparency has an educative value. This one, which a child could make, is made on a hollow cardboard circle covered with stars of folded white rice paper with yellow centers. The center of the transparency is of pressed buttercups and ferns between transparent light green paper.

Keeping Cut-Flowers.

Cut flowers will last fresh much longer if before putting them in water the stem is split up about an inch. Maidenbairn fern, will last fresh for a long time if when gathered the stems are inserted in boiling water and left until the water is cold before using.

Shank Buttons.

In sewing on shank buttons sew on the button with the shank running parallel with the button and not lengthwise, as the closing effect in the latter case will not be good.

MRS. EDDY'S BIRTHPLACE IS BURNED

Concord, April 9.—The buildings on the Baker place in Bow, including the old red house in which Mary Baker G. Eddy was born, and in which the first 15 years of her life were passed, were destroyed by fire on Friday, the entire property being wiped out.

The old house was owned by Mark
Baker, father of Mary Baker G. Eddy, and was erected early in the 19th century. When the place passed to his son, A. W. Baker, he moved the old house across the road from its former location and erected buildings which were also burned, Friday and which included a large dwelling with oil, connecting the shed and barn, 40 by 60 feet. The house contained 12 rooms.

From A. W. Baker the property passed to John W. Baker, at present living in Concord, who sold it some time ago to Walter Perrigo. The latter occupied it as a dwelling.
The house of late years has been used as a carriage house and granary.

discharged last year on charges of neglect preferred against them.

THE NAVAL APPROPRIATIONS

Washington, April 9.—The naval appropriation bill with several important amendments was, in spite of opposition from the naval affairs committee and was passed by the House late Friday evening.

Authorization for the trial of the naval reorganization plan of Secretary Meyer was stricken from the bill, and an appropriation of $1,000, 000 for the construction of a repair shop which the Massachusetts delegation had hoped would be built at the Boston navy yard, was cut out.
As passed, the bill carries about $128,
000,000, or approximately $9,000,000 less than the naval appropriation for the current fiscal year.

A stormy debate occurred on several vital provisions, culminating in the defeat, toward the close of the day, of those members who are opposed to the president's naval policy. The two battleships to cost $20, 000,000 each remain in the bill. A roll call was demanded on that portion of the building program and excited the liveliest interest.

When the paragraph appropriating
$1,000,000 each for two fleet colliers of 14 knots was reached Representative Kellher of Boston offered an amendment stipulating that one of the vessels should be built in a government navy yard. This was with the expectation of having the ship constructed at the Charlestown yard in the amendment were agreed to. A point of order against it by Representative Foss of Illinois, chairman of the committee, was sustained and the amendment was lost.
